n BIOGRAPHY: The woman physician--may she increase and multiply. I have believed from my earliest recollection that woman was the equal of man in many attributes of character and his superior in some. In fact, I believe in the equality of the sexes, in the principles of Christianity as applied to humanity and exemplified in the teaching and practice of the golden rule, in the Declaration of Independence as framed by the immortal Jefferson wherein he declares that all men are created equal and endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. I doubt not but these fundamental principles are accepted by the great majority of intelligent Americans. Still there are many who doubt the propriety of woman entering the professions while yielding consent to the argument that she has the right to do so--the right to earn her livelihood in any honest avocation in which the God of nature may have endowed her with abilities to pursue. Who, oh man, shall be the Judge as to the propriety? Thanks to an enlightened public conscience and the steady progressive spirit of the age, the high walls of prejudice, superstition and ignorance have been broken in many places, if not entirely leveled, and today we can point to many illustrious examples wherein our noble profession has been honored and elevated, a community benefitted and blessed, and many a house made happy by the faithful intelligent demonstrations of a woman physician whose efforts for the amelioration of the sufferings of others have won for her imperishable tablets in the temple of humanity. To those who doubt the propriety of women entering the professions, I would remind them that women have exercised the highest civil powers in all ages of the world, from Zenobia of Palmyra to Victoria of England, and without detracting from their graces as women or their virtues as mothers. That women have created public sentiment before which legislatures have bowed and courts have bowed. "God grant that the day may soon arrive when we shall not only accord them the right of equal pay for equal work in any and all pursuits to which they may aspire and in which they may prove themselves equipped, but also when our enlightened nation shall grant them the recognition of their capacity for full citizenship."

BIOGRAPHY: It is the belief of many wise men of our times that there is a crisis at hand in the affairs of government. That in the great gulf stream of humanity which flows from foreign shores with increasing and rising flood, the integrity of our nation is at hazard, and unrestricted immigration is the mother of public demoralization, socialism, and anarchy. The only cure is restricted immigration and universal suffrage limited only by an educational qualification. I believe the cure will be more permanent than the one effected by the Erie physician of whom my friend Sen. McClure relates that he had acquired quite a reputation in the treatment of stuttering. One morning, a patient entered his office and enquired, "Can you cure stuttering?" "Yes sir"--just then a young man in the office desirous of sharing the doctor's skill exclaimed, "He cured me!"

BIOGRAPHY: I would advise the lady practitioner, should there be any present and unmarried, that before she enters upon the sea of matrimony she ponders well "and not subject herself to criticisms as did the young medical student of whom I have heard" "who had fallen in love with a fine young woman of prominent and wealthy parents. The girl was willing, but the father objected because of the young man's poverty. In his distress, he applied to his _____, a wise and benevolent old gentleman, as all old doctors are. He, determined to help him, said to him, "I will give you $25,000 for your right leg." The young man refused. A few days later, the doctor made it his business to see the father of the young lady, and in a friendly chat, the father stated his objection to the young man on account of his poverty. "What, why I heard him refuse $25,000 for a piece of property the other day, and I know he has other pieces equally as fine."

BIOGRAPHY: Joseph Baltzell Showalter, M.D., (1851-1932), from handwritten notes on Pennsylvania Senate stationery, evidently made for a speech c. 1889-1892, during his term in the Pennsylvania Senate. He had served in the Pennsylvania House of Delegates from 1887 to 1888. He later went onto the U.S. Congress. From the Biographical Directory of the U.S. Congress: "elected as a Republican to the Fifty-fifth Congress to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James J. Davidson; reelected to the Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Congresses and served from April 20, 1897, to March 3, 1903; was not a candidate for reelection;" Once having taken up residence in Washington, Dr. Showalter remained there the rest of his life. One of his daughters, Lucile McKee Showalter, (1893-1974), married Milton William Leggett, (1894-1970), my grandfather, in Washington D.C. in 1925. Transcribed by voice, David John Leggett, 29 November 1999.
