[a)] BIOGRAPHY: Raised in Pittsburgh's Homewood section, at 314 North HomewoodAvenue, he graduated from Sterrit School, Point Breeze. His fatherdiedof pneumonia in 1909, just before he enrolled at Shady Side Academy. Hewent on to Princeton University and graduated Phi Beta Kappa in 1917 witha degree in classics, planning to study law. He joined the U.S. Army andserved with the Coastal Artillery Corps at Fortress Monroe,Virginiabefore being sent to France with large railway guns. He was aFirstLieutenant with the 5th Tng. Co., enlisted 25 August 1917, and discharged25 January 1919. After the war he returned to Pittsburgh to help hismother manage the William T. Leggett Company.n nBIOGRAPHY: On 12 September 1925, in Washington, D.C.â€™s MetropolitanMethodist Episcopal Church, he married Lucile McKee Showalter, Methodistdaughter of former Congressman Joseph Baltzell Showalter and Ella MarianMcKee. The ceremony was witnessed only by the respective families,with aluncheon following at the Mayflower Hotel. The newlyweds took the trainto New York, where they stayed for a few days in the RooseveltHotel, nodoubt paying calls on Leggett relatives, both those who had,and thosewho had not, been able to attend the wedding in Washington. They hadtickets for the S. S. Sixaola, of the United Fruit Company SteamshipService, sailing for Kingston, Jamaica at 11 a.m. on 16 September, fromPier 9 North River. While in Jamaica, they stayed in the MyrtleBankHotel in Kingston, also owned and operated by the United Fruit Company.We have a photo album and scrapbook, embossed "Our Book ofMemories--Milton and Lucile Leggett" which contains many pictures andother remembrances of their courtship, honeymoon and married livesthrough about 1960.n nBIOGRAPHY: Returning from their honeymoon, they lived for a short time at605A Worth Street, Squirrel Hill, Pittsburgh. Milton is seen posingbefore the front door in his army uniform on Memorial Day, 1926. Theywere living there upon the birth of their first child, Elizabeth Ann, on16 February 1927. Shortly thereafter, in May, 1927, they moved to largerquarters at 6521 Dalzell Place. Their second child, John Milton, arrivedon 22 January 1931. In 1932, they moved to the northern edge of AlleghenyCounty, to Bradford Woods Boro. During the family's nine-yearresidencythere, he served on the Boro Council, and the children attendedelementary school in a two-room school house. They rented a house at 800Narcissus Street, Clearwater Beach, Florida, during the summer of1941.Lucile's mother and her only surviving brother, Joseph, had moved fromWashington, D.C. and were by that time residents of Tampa. Lucile wasstill in Clearwater Beach in September 1941, when Milton sent a telegramfrom Pittsburgh commemorating their 16th anniversary and announcing thesigning of the purchase agreement for their first house. So they returnedto Squirrel Hill, at 6632 Ridgeville Street, primarily so Liz couldattend Winchester-Thurston School. They lived in Ridgeville Street until1960, when they moved to a new house of their own design at 121 HartwoodDrive, Point Breeze.n nBIOGRAPHY: During all these years, they attended Calvary EpiscopalChurch, Pittsburgh. At Calvary Church he had been a choir boy, and as ayoung man was an organizer of the Junior Vestry which did Sunday morningushering. Later he served as a vestryman of this venerable parish,working for many years as an Every Member Canvasser.n nBIOGRAPHY: As President of the William T. Leggett Co., Inc., Miltonoversaw the expansion of the firm and the rapid postwar changes in thewholesale building supply business. He replaced heavy tonnage, low profitinventory such as sewer pipe, cement and slate roofing with aluminumwindows and siding and all kinds of kitchen and bathroom fixtures andappliances. He moved the firm from the Strip District to the Bloomfieldproperty on the PRR mainline at 615 Gross Street, and, in the late1960's, to the present location next to the 40th Street Bridge inLawrenceville. His plan to sell the business to his employees was carriedout by his sister Helen Corbett and his son John.n nBIOGRAPHY: A man with true Renaissance interests, Milton read widely,loved to hike and tour the back roads and historic sites of the U.S.A.and Canada. He had an amazing ability to relate easily to persons of allbackgrounds; he took a genuine and compassionate interest in all whom hemet. He enjoyed painting and photography, and he delighted Pittsburghaudiences with his antique "magic lantern" shows. A favorite spot in thebackyard garden was his wildflower bed.n nBIOGRAPHY: Milton died of cancer at Columbia Hospital in July 1970. Notlong after, Lucile gave up the house she had overseen the design andconstruction of only a decade earlier. She moved into an apartment inOakland, near to where her sister-in-law, Helen Corbett, lived after theold family home at 314 Homewood Avenue was sold to Rockwell ManufacturingCo. and torn down.n nBIOGRAPHY: Family records of the Rev. Davidson; reelected to the Fifty-sixthand Fifty-seventh Congresses andserved from April 20, 1897, to March 3,1903; was not a candidate for reelection; resumed his former businesspursuits and resided in Butler,Pa.; moved to Pittsburgh, Pa., and thento Washington, D.C.; also engaged in the development of land in southernFlorida; died in Washington,D.C., December 3, 1932; interment in NorthCemetery, Butler, Pa.n nBIOGRAPHY: Senate of Pennsylvania.n nBIOGRAPHY: The woman physician--may she increase and multiply. I havebelieved from my earliest recollection that woman was the equal of maninmany attributes of character and his superior in some. In fact, I believein the equality of the sexes, in the principles of Christianity asapplied to humanity and exemplified in the teaching and practice of thegolden rule, in the Declaration of Independence as framed by the immortalJefferson wherein he declares that all men are created equal andendowedby their Creator with certain inalienable rights among which are life,liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. I doubt not but these fundamentalprinciples are accepted by the great majority of intelligentAmericans.Still there are many who doubt the propriety of woman entering theprofessions while yielding consent to the argument that she hasthe rightto do so--the right to earn her livelihood in any honest avocation inwhich the God of nature may have endowed her with abilities to pursue.Who, oh man, shall be the Judge as to the propriety? Thanks to anenlightened public conscience and the steady progressive spirit oftheage, the high walls of prejudice, superstition and ignorance have beenbroken in many places, if not entirely leveled, and today we can point tomany illustrious examples wherein our noble profession has beenhonoredand elevated, a community benefitted and blessed, and many a house madehappy by the faithful intelligent demonstrations of a woman physicianwhose efforts for the amelioration of the sufferings of othershave wonfor her imperishable tablets in the temple of humanity. To those whodoubt the propriety of women entering the professions, I would remindthem that women have exercised the highest civil powers in all ages ofthe world, from Zenobia of Palmyra to Victoria of England, and withoutdetracting from their graces as women or their virtues as mothers. Thatwomen have created public sentiment before which legislatures have beatand courts have bowedâ€“God grant that the day may soon arrivewhen weshall not only accord them the right of equal pay for equal work in anyand all pursuits to which they may aspire and in which they may provethemselves equipped, but also when our enlightened nation shall grantthem the recognition of their capacity for full citizenship.n nBIOGRAPHY: It is the belief of many wise men of our times that there is acrisis at hand in the affairs of government. That in the great gulfstream of humanity which flows from foreign shores with increasing andrising flood, the integrity our nation is at hazard, and unrestrictedimmigration is the mother of public demoralization, socialism, andanarchy. The only cure is restricted immigration and universal suffragelimited only by an educational qualification. I believe the cure will bemore permanent than the one effected by the Erie physician of whom myfriend Sen. Mclereary relates that he had acquired quite a reputation inthe treatment of stuttering. One morning, a patient entered his officeand enquired, "Can you cure stuttering?" "Yes sir"--just then a young manin the office desirous of sharing the doctors skill exclaimed, "He curedme!"n nBIOGRAPHY: I would advise the lady practitioner, should there be anypresent and unmarried, that before she enters upon the sea of matrimonyshe ponders wellâ€“and not subject herself to criticisms as did the youngmedical student of whom I have heardâ€“who had fallen in love with a fineyoung woman of prominent and wealthy parents. The girl was willing, butthe father objected because of the young manâ€™s poverty. In his distress,he applied to his _____, a wise and benevolent old gentleman, as allold doctors are. He, determined to help him, said to him, "I will giveyou $25,000 for your right leg." The young man refused. A few days later,the doctor made it his business to see the father of the young lady, andin a friendly chat, the father stated his objection to the young man onaccount of his poverty. "What, why I heard him refuse $25,000 for a pieceof property the other day, and I know he has other pieces equally asfine.n nBIOGRAPHY: Joseph Baltzell Showalter, M.D., (1851-1932), from handwrittennotes on Pennsylvania Senate stationery, evidently made for a speech c.1889-1892, during his term in the Pennsylvania Senate.
